

1

ABSTRACT

2 The invention pertains to optical fiber transmission systems, and is particularly relevant
3 to optical transport systems employing optical amplifiers. In particular the invention teaches an 4 apparatus and method that allows cost effective co-directional operation of an optical amplifier
5 to support full duplex traffic on a single fiber, and the design of an optical fiber transmission
6 system based on this optical amplifier technology.